INSURANCE: Those wishing to file office visits with their insurance company should also list on a separate sheet of paper any medical problems (see opposite page) you are hoping to help improve with weight reduction. Besides listing the problem, you MUST also list (1) how long you have had this problem, (2) when it was first diagnosed and by whom, (3) how it has been treated (medications, therapy, etc.), and what results you have had to date. This is also true if you have had previous weight reduction attempts – list program(s), dates, amounts lost, how successful, etc. as this information is generally required by many insurance carriers when considering coverage of claims.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: Pregnancy is advised against while on many pharmacological agents. If there is the slightest chance you are currently pregnant, you MUST perform a pregnancy test/check BEFORE starting any medications prescribed by this physician. Since weight loss can affect hormonal balance, other contraception (such as abstinence, condoms, etc.) in addition to or besides birth control pills should be utilized during susceptible times of your menstrual cycle as a precautionary measure. If unsure of when this is, consult your gynecologist or family physician.

BE ADVISED that almost any form of medical/pharmacological therapy is not without risks and benefits. Patients losing weight, especially large amounts in short periods of time, can have a higher incidence than the general population of problems, including (but not limited to) low blood glucose, electrolyte imbalances, weakness, mood swings, hair loss, cardiac (heart) irregularities, loss of muscle and lean body tissue, menstrual irregularities, infertility, skin changes, cold intolerance, constipation, nervousness, restlessness, irritability, euphoria, lack of concentration, insomnia, elevated or lowered blood pressure, rapid heart rate, chest heaviness or pain, itching, and/or rashes.

ALSO, BE ADVISED that weight loss can cause an increase in cholesterol supersaturation of bile, as well as decreased gallbladder concentration and increased biliary stasis which may lead to the formation of gallstones. Such an event can potentially lead to a gallbladder attack possibly requiring treatment or gallbladder removal (surgery). However, other risk factors for potential gallbladder problems include obesity, age over forty, and being female. It will be your choice to participate in weight reduction having been informed of these potential complications.

OF COURSE, excessive weight may also have many other potential risks, including (but not limited to) diabetic tendencies, gallbladder attacks, arteriosclerosis, stroke, cancers, coronary events, and other heart problems. It is the responsibility of each individual patient to discuss their concerns and medical problems with the physician.

BY SIGNING below, I indicate that I understand the information listed above and WILL NOT START ANY THERAPY by this physician until I have been given an opportunity to ask questions about my condition, alternate forms of treatment, risks of non-treatment, the treatment and medications to be used, and the risks and hazards involved. I also understand that ALCOHOL use while on this programs' medication and while attempting to reduce weight is ADVISED AGAINST by this physician.

I AGREE to contact this physician at the first sign of any complications in conjunction with this treatment program. I also certify that the information I have supplied on this chart is complete and accurate.
